

FMTP 001. FARM PRACTICE 1 (152-001-MC).

Credits: 1.33

Offered by: Farm Mgmt & Technology Program (Faculty of Agric Environ Sci)

This course is not offered this catalogue year.

Description

This course combines classroom activities and a one-week internship on a farm to allow students to understand the workplace functions of a farm manager as well as the conditions under which they are exercised. Students are introduced to the available sources of information on the workplace functions of the farm manager. Additionally, they collect pertinent information in the workplace during their internship. Students outline the workplace characteristics of the farm manager while recognizing the potential for entrepreneurial initiatives in this sector of activity.
