

INLG 421. INDIGENOUS KNOWLEDGE ORGANIZATION SYSTEMS

Credits: 3

Offered by: Linguistics (Faculty of Arts)

This course is not offered this catalogue year.

Description

Focus on how traditional knowledges are organized, presented, and represented over time by Indigenous peoples in Canada, the U.S., and the Pacific. The discursive divisions between the generation, care, and perpetuation of knowledges in place, and colonial and imperial processes that effaced and transformed these knowledges through various methods. Pedagogies of orality, the mediation of Indigenous knowledges through textual and digital mediums. The politics of access, how knowledge is represented by libraries, archives and museums, and how institutions can partner more effectively with communities.

- Prerequisites: (INDG 200 or LING 211) and one 300- or higher-level course with primary focus in history or Indigenous studies; or intermediate to advanced knowledge of an Indigenous language of North America.

Most students use Visual Schedule Builder (VSB) to organize their schedules. VSB helps you plan class schedules, travel time, and more.

Launch Visual Schedule Builder