Description

Audience, purpose, organization, and style of graduate-level academic writing with attention to mechanics, textual analysis, critical thinking and editing skills. Common rhetorical patterns to organize research writing, including problem-solution, general-specific, process description, data commentary, article summary/critique.

- Restriction: Not open to students who have taken CESL 690.
- For graduate students only
- **Due to the condensed nature of this course, the standard add/drop, and withdrawal deadlines do not apply. Add/drop is the second lecture day and withdrawal with financial penalty is the fourth lecture day.

Most students use Visual Schedule Builder (VSB) to organize their schedules. VSB helps you plan class schedules, travel time, and more.
