

PROFESSIONAL

Faculty of Dental Medicine and Oral Health Sciences (Professional)

The Faculty of Dental Medicine and Oral Health Sciences at McGill University has a long and proud tradition of excellence in both its teaching and multidisciplinary research programs. Highly regarded for the quality of its students and for its innovative research activities, the Faculty's national and international reputation stands tall amongst the best faculties of dentistry in the world. With a highly engaged and dynamic professoriate and support staff, and with a diverse and passionate undergraduate, graduate, and postdoctoral student community, the Faculty provides a stimulating, academic environment in the life sciences that nimbly adapts to advances in professional dentistry, craniofacial, oral health, and multidisciplinary research.

Select a category from the menu to find out more.