

NURSING, INGRAM SCHOOL OF

McGill University's Ingram School of Nursing creates an environment for students to excel, to innovate, and to be proud ambassadors of the nursing profession as they prepare for their careers on the frontlines of public and global health.

We are committed to the highest standards of academic excellence and cutting-edge research and innovation, and to fostering dynamic collaborations at the local, national, and global levels. We espouse a strengths-based approach to nursing, a philosophy and value-driven approach spearheaded by McGill's own Dr. Laurie Gottlieb, RN.

The school offers students the chance to discover the many rewarding opportunities the nursing profession has to offer, all in new facilities with state-of-the-art learning laboratories.

Mission

To educate current and future nurses; advance the art and science of nursing; and optimize health and health equity globally through academic excellence, strengths-based nursing, and innovation.

Vision

Creating conditions for health and healing through knowledgeable, compassionate, strengths-based nursing.
